

Linked

By Wilson Taylor

Sometimes you may feel all alone, and wonder if anyone cares
Do you wonder if anyone feels your pain, does anyone hear your prayers?
Let this little chain remind you, of the love that binds us strong
We may each be only a little link, but remember the chain is long!
Sometimes we can only see in part, losing sight of the bigger whole
But In God's mystery He weaves our lives—in His love, together each soul
God's ways and plans are hard for us, to ever understand
But we must trust we're part, of a bigger purpose and plan
No matter how big the chain, no matter how small each link
God knows each and every part, more than we could ever think
He sees, hears, feels, and loves you, and His grace can cover you too
He's promised to never leave or forsake, each and every link—that's you!
So when you feel lonely, small, and are tempted to despair
Let this chain remind you, of a God and family who care
Wrap it 'round your wrist or place in sight, to remember you're not alone
You're important, special—needed, to the other links you're sewn
You're a precious link in this chain, seen clearly by God above,
Remember: By God and by us, you are so incredibly loved!
